
Additional Resources

1. Recognised Theologians/Authors

The following Christian theologians/authors are evangelical¹ and culturally relevant.

1. Martyn Lloyd-Jones (1899-1991)

Influential Welsh protestant minister who pastored at Westminster Chapel, London (1939-1968). He believed that preaching must be the logical demonstration of the truth of a given passage of Scripture with the aid of the Holy Spirit. That is, 'logic on fire'. Recordings of his sermons are available for download at <http://www.mlj.org.uk/home>.

2. N T (Tom) Wright (1948-)

Bishop of Durham and highly respected New Testament scholar. He is particularly good on the resurrection of Christ. His book, The Resurrection of the Son of God presents a clearly organised and logical case that addresses every doubt about the resurrection, both ancient and modern. A short and easily readable book is Following Jesus, a series of talks on what it means to follow Jesus today. Lectures, articles and talks are available here <http://www.ntwrightpage.com/>.

3. Timothy Keller (1950 -)

Influential founder and pastor of Redeemer Presbyterian church in New York, one of Manhattan's most vital congregations. Excellent and highly recommended speaker who convincingly presents the gospel to a sceptical, post-modern generation. Free sermon resource at <http://sermons2.redeemer.com/>. The Reason for God clearly and rigorously addresses common arguments about the existence of God. The Prodigal God is an changing account of Jesus' parable of the prodigal son. Tim Keller's books are available through Australian Christian bookstores.

4. J I Packer (1926 -)

A Canadian Theologian, considered one of the most influential evangelical theologians in North America. Knowing God, probably his best-known work, explores the character of God as revealed in the Bible, and the Christian response to it. J I Packer's books are available in Australian Christian bookstores, and audio at <http://www.jipackeronline.com/>.

5. John Stott (1921 -)

An evangelical Anglican clergyman, he has been at the heart of the evangelical renewal in the UK. In 2004, New York Times columnist David Brooks wrote that, if evangelicals chose a pope, they would likely select John Stott. Issues facing Christians today brings the lens of biblically informed thinking and intellectual rigour to contemporary issues such as same sex marriage, pluralism, human rights, industrial relations, AIDS and terrorism. The Bible and the Christian Life: Six Sessions on the Authority, Interpretation, and Use of Scripture (DVD) clearly and rigorously addresses key areas of Christian beliefs absolutely central to Christianity. The John Stott website is at <http://www.johnstottministries.org/>.

6. Philip Yancey (1949 -)

A popular American Christian author and journalist who addresses tough matters and ponders deep questions about faith with honesty and depth. His books are available through Australian Christian bookstores; and his column at Christianity Today is available at: <http://www.christianitytoday.com/ct/features/opinion/columns/philipyancey/>.

7. Francis Schaeffer (1912-1984)

A Presbyterian minister who saw that philosophical questions of meaning, morals, and value are also addressed by the Bible. Once an agnostic, Schaeffer came to the conclusion that Biblical Christianity not only gave sufficient answers to the big questions, but that they were the only answers that were both self-consistent and liveable. Schaeffer taught that God is really “there” and that He has spoken to man in the Bible. As a result we can have “true truth” about God and man, not the “death of hope” that human philosophy engenders. Francis Schaeffer’s books can be found in Australian Christian bookstores. The Shelter at <http://www.rationalpi.com/theshelter/> is a site dedicated to the work of Francis Schaeffer.

8. Judson Cornwall (1924-2005)

An Assemblies of God preacher, best known for his writing on worship and intimacy with God. His books are accessible, thoughtful and insightful, and are classics of Christian literature. Although best known for the books Let us worship, Elements of worship, A Reasoning Faith and Let us praise, his many other books are also worth searching out and reading.

9. Charles Spurgeon (1834-1892)

Known as the ‘Prince of Preachers’, Charles Spurgeon’s weekly sermons remain one of the all-time best selling series of writings published in history. An archive of Spurgeon’s work is at <http://www.spurgeon.org/mainpage.htm>. - Spurgeon’s works in e-Book format are free to download at Grace-eBooks.com. A daily devotional series by Spurgeon is available at <http://www.answersingenesis.org/devotions/devotions.asp>. An audio archive of his sermons is at <http://www.mountzion.org/spurgeon.html>. Spurgeon’s The Treasury of David is a superb commentary on the book of Psalms, and is still in print.

10. C S Lewis (1898-1963)

An Anglo-Irish, academic, medievalist, literary critic, essayist, lay theologian and Christian apologist. He is also well known for his fiction, especially The Screwtape letters and The Chronicles of Narnia. Lewis was very interested in presenting a reasonable case for the truth of Christianity. Mere Christianity and The problem of pain are concerned with refuting popular objections to Christianity such as “How could a good God allow pain to exist in the world?”. A useful C S Lewis website is at <http://cslewis.drzeus.net/>.

11. David Jackman (1942 -)

A renowned British Evangelical speaker who excels in expository preaching that is relevant and thoughtful. His sermons can be found at <http://www.proctrust.org.uk/person/david-jackman>

12. Dick Lucas (1925 -)

An Anglican evangelical clergyman, best known for his long ministry at St Helen’s Bishopsgate in London. Under his leadership St Helen’s grew from a tiny congregation of a few individuals to a large thriving church with a ministry to city workers, families, students and young professionals, and a reputation for serious expository preaching and Bible teaching. His sermons can be found at <http://www.proctrust.org.uk/person/dick-lucas> and http://www.monergism.com/directory/link_category/Audio-and-Multimedia/All-Speakers-Lectures-and-Sermons/Dick-Lucas/.

13. Dietrich Bonhoeffer (1906-1945)

A German Lutheran pastor and theologian. His view of Christianity’s role in the secular world has become very influential. Bonhoeffer’s best-known book, The Cost of Discipleship is a study of the Sermon on the Mount in which he attacked “cheap grace” as a cover for ethical laxity and preached “costly grace”.

14. Lesslie Newbigin (1909-1998)

A Church of Scotland missionary serving in the former Madras State. He is remembered especially for the period of his life when he sought to communicate the need for the church to take the Gospel anew to the post-Christian Western culture, which he viewed not as a secular society with no gods but as a pagan society with false gods. It was during this time that he wrote two of his most important works, Foolishness to the Greeks and The Gospel in a Pluralist Society. A Newbigin bibliography is available at <http://www.newbigin.net/>.

15. Tim Downs

A fiction author, who also writes on Christian relationships and communication. His book, Finding Common Ground, is a superb book about communicating the gospel effectively to contemporary culture.

2. Christian Journals and Magazines

There is no shortage of contemporary Christian journals and magazines. Most are an amalgam of stories, Christian world perspectives, articles, photographs, advertisements, news and interviews, opinion pieces, columns by well known speakers and writers and advice for shopping, parenting, cooking, dieting and other “practical” tips for living.

Most contain snippets of teaching (much of it of the “inspirational” variety”), however they are not the place you will find serious consideration of the theological “issues” confronting modern Christians. In addition, the majority of those that have wide circulation are aimed at Christians in the West and contain cultural biases.

By all means, dip into such publications, but go much further afield for deeper treatment of theological matters.

Samples of Publications

1. Christianity Today

Christianity Today is one of the leading Christian magazines; it is available online and in printed format. The popular publication covers world, national, church and ministry news, as well as practical advice on entertainment, shopping, parenting and marriage resources, help with college and seminary selection, community guides, and sermon aids.

The format is a "Guidepost meets Charisma" inspirational focus with the goal of educating and connecting Christians to other like-minded believers in businesses and ministries all over the world.

9. Guideposts

Guideposts monthly magazine is designed "to help people from all walks of life achieve their maximum personal and spiritual potential." Stories and articles from everyday people and well-known celebrities are designed to help readers grow practically and spiritually in their daily lives.

10. Christian History & Biography

Christian History & Biography offers highly researched chronicles of people and events that have shaped the journey of Christianity throughout the ages. It contains articles, graphics, illustrations, timelines and maps designed to enhance the retracing of Christianity's roots.

Denominational Publications

Another source of information is magazines published by individual Christian denominations, for example: the Catholic Weekly; Church of England reader; Trowel and Sword (Christian Reformed Churches of Australia); Warcry (Salvation Army); and the Pentecostal Evangel.

Most material in these publications is useful, however the contents reflect the denominational emphases of the churches that sponsor them and the theological depth is variable.

The so-called “Christian” cults have well-known magazines as well, for example Watchtower and Awake, published by the Jehovah’s Witness organisation, and Christian Odyssey, published by the Worldwide Church of God (formerly published Plain Truth). Clearly, the cults recognise the value of disseminating their material in written form. It is not recommended that any such material be used as primary sources for theological teaching.

Internet

There are many millions of articles of a Christian nature on the Internet. Great care needs to be taken to establish the reliability of the sources, so as not to end up with a mixture of truth (presented both well and poorly) and false teaching.

¹ For the purposes of this course the term “evangelical” has been taken to refer to Christians and a theological framework that hold to the following:

–the Bible is God’s Word; it is the Truth;

–a supernatural world exists; the evangelical paradigm is centred in an eternal, personal God who intervenes in creation, in particular in the Incarnation of Jesus Christ;

–God’s plan is redemptive; it is based around the forgiving and transforming grace of God made available to us through Jesus Christ (whose substitutionary death, and resurrection, make it all possible) in the experience called conversion, the beginning of genuine Christian living;

–the primary task of Christian theology is to serve the church’s mission of bringing the message and power of God’s grace and Christ’s redemption to the whole world through proclamation and service.
